

Key to Course Descriptions

Biographical information about instructors begins on p. 57.

This course occurs during the fall semester every Wednesday except designated holidays. See Academic Calendar on the inside cover of this catalog for a list of holiday closing dates.

Watercolor Painting Bici Pettit-Barron

Watercolor painting is the perfect medium for field work. The materials needed are relatively inexpensive, lightweight, and easy to carry. Watercolor has the reputation of being a difficult medium, but once demystified it is actually easier than oils or acrylic. Demystifying watercolor is what we will do in this course by working on washes, painting wet-on-wet, glazing, reserving whites, and by learning how to mix color successfully. The course is open to students who are familiar with watercolor, as well as those who have never painted before. Watercolor is a medium you will use all your life—in your professional work, when traveling, and for your own personal pleasure.

531A Fall, Wednesday, Sep 10–Dec 10, 1:00–4:00 PM
DG Credits: 4.0
Audit

Graduate (GR): $980
Noncredit (NC): $625

Please be sure to enter the course code correctly on your application form and check it when you receive your registration confirmation.

This section also indicates the number and type of credits the course offers toward any of the landscape certificates. A key to credit types is available on the inside back cover of this catalog.

Most courses are available for graduate credit (GR) and some are available to audit (NC); there are no undergraduate courses offered. If you want credit toward a certificate in the program, you must enroll for courses with graduate credit status. See Certificate Programs on p. 46 for additional information.

This fall semester course takes place between September 10 and December 10 from 1:00 PM to 4:00 PM.

Classroom locations will be provided in the registration confirmation you receive in the mail. Classroom schedules will also be posted on the bulletin board at 30 Chauncy Street, Cambridge, the weekend before courses begin.